

- Blended learning in TVET: case presented by Hannington Odongo, Must University, Uganda
  - https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=OR3W\_OINV04
  - <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=GCYILqMX5KU>
  - EARNED Documentary.mp4

- Blended learning for advisory services to farmers: case presented by Lysette Lacambra, East West Seed Knowledge Transfer.
  - <https://growhow.eastwestseed.com/>
  - <https://www.youtube.com/@EastWestSeedKnowledgeTransfer>

After each speaker there was time to ask questions to the speakers, which the audience actively made use of. The questions that were not able to be answered during that session, were answered during the chat by the speakers. There was a lot of traction in the chat in order to exchange information and contacts.

After each Q&A session there was time for the audience to fill out a Mural to share challenges, solutions and other tips and tricks in relation to 'making blended learning work'. There were two set topics to provide feedback on: 'used to different ways of learning' and 'internet connectivity'. There was space to choose other topics to provide feedback on, although this did not happen.

Observations

In total there were about 50 persons who attended the webinar, with a nice mix of regions and types of organisations. Both Asia, Africa and Europe were nicely represented. The type of organisations were also a nice mix of knowledge institutes, companies, NGO's and individual consultants.

As a follow-up of this webinar the following will be sent to the audience: PPTs of the speakers; relevant links; Mural-PDF, the link of the recording on Youtube and a short evaluation. As this was the first out of two webinars, the next takes place on Tuesday 13th of December, 10.30-12.00 CET.

Contacts

Esther Wintraecken

Learning professional and project developer 'Sustainable Agriculture'

Wageningen University & Research | Field Crops

esther.wintraecken@wur.nl

Wim Goris

Netherlands Food Partnership

wgoris@nlfoodpartnership.com